TRUST IN THE LORD

Discouraged. Confused. Alone. Just a few words to describe how I've felt lately. I caught myself on Tuesday feeling very down. My friends will tell you I'm notorious for listening to sad music in the dark when I'm feeling like that. Yes, I realize it is not the healthiest thing to do. I had a friend tell me when he's sad he listen to Christian music more. I don't know why I've never done that before, so I started to. Yes, I still cried but not because I felt alone, confused, and discouraged. I felt comfort, peace, and was reminded how great God is. A popular song "New Wine" has a line that says, "when I trust in You, I don't need to understand". Did that just hit you the way it hit me? Now days we are so use to having answers right away. Don't know, google it! As a millennial I don't know how people functioned without the internet. You had to either know a person or go find a book and read, only to maybe find out it didn't have the answers you were looking for?! Sounds awful! Even though the internet has done wonders for society, it has also helped us become less patient and understanding. I feel like many of us thought the Coronavirus wouldn't last this long, or there wouldn't be that many changes that would come with it. We don't understand why this is all happening, or how long it will last. But we don't need to. God knew before the first case broke out, he knew the changes and he knows the timeline. It is for us to trust in him whole heartedly. "Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding" Proverbs 3:5. May we all have a better week, no a better year, while putting our trust in God and not in ourselves.
